

CONSULTANT PROFILE SIÂN PARRISH

RECRUITMENT BUSINESS PARTNER MANUFACTURING SPECIALIST

Siân has worked in recruitment since 2010 where she has gained a broad scope of experience before specialising in finding the best possible talent for clients in the manufacturing industry. The range of technical and hands-on roles in a manufacturing business of any size can be broad and varied. We realise the importance of sourcing the best possible candidates from warehouse and packing roles through to highly experienced Engineers and department leaders. Roles Siân frequently hires for include warehousing, transport and logistics, production planners and scheduling, stock and materials handlers, procurement and buyers, CAD & product designers, health & safety professionals, quality and compliance, machine and line operatives, mechanical / electrical engineers. Siân is also able to draw upon our wider, generalist approach to source for support based roles. At Netbox, we have a unique network of over 20,000 local candidates and a wider network where we gain 100's of candidate referrals for varied roles both specialist and support based.

Siân has been with Netbox Recruitment since 2017 and has achieved fantastic success including become a multiple Netbox award winner in 2019 and securing over 200 permanent opportunities over the last three years! With her honest, open and reliable approach to recruiting, combined with a second-to-none work ethic, Siân has developed long-lasting relationships with a range of manufacturing clients across the South East who fully trust and value the service she provides. She believes that in order for clients to get the most value from their recruitment drive, it must more than just simply a process or a means to an end. Similarly, for Siân, recruitment is more than just a job; it's about providing excellent customer service from start to finish and enabling each of her clients to find the perfect employee that will help take their business to the next level.

Over the last few years, Siân has helped us recruit for a variety of roles. I have always found Siân to be professional, enthusiastic and honest. She takes time to get to know the full details of the role, the dynamics of the working environment and exactly what the line manager is looking for. I have no hesitation recommending her.

I first met Siân when she door knocked a few years ago – full of smiles! We've always found Netbox's approach to finding candidates very successful. Siân invests time establishing key requirements and offers an approachable point of contact. I have found Netbox most thorough in fully understanding any role and supplying candidates that very closely fit the criteria. We have used Netbox for both permanent and temporary roles in the past and would not hesitate in using them again in the future
